

Do You Have Faith in Your Tree Service?

by Jean Ferdinandsen, Certified Arborist WI-0149A

My old Webster's dictionary defines faith as being firm to one's promises and contracts; being worthy of confidence and belief. At Wachtel Tree Science and Service we work as a team to build and maintain your faith in us as leaders in the tree care industry.

Communications are always emphasized. This means any person that sees your trees or talks to you makes sure important matters, concerns, or information is passed on and recorded.

We have a high level of education, knowledge, and experience within Wachtel. We currently have 13 Certified Arborists and 3 Board Certified Master Arborists on staff. Ongoing education and training are always taking place. This runs the gamut from formal course work in tree care and diagnostics to "tailgate" sessions on safety and operations.

Wachtel Tree Science and Service was one of the first in the country to become accredited by the Tree Care Industry Association (TCIA). This accreditation is based on a foundation of ethics, quality, and consumer confidence. Business practices, insurance, training and certification, compliance with standards, regulations and safety practices, as well as consumer satisfaction are all reviewed.

Proper diagnosis of tree care needs and plant health issues is the basis we operate from. Without a proper diagnosis or evaluation, it is impossible to provide the correct treatment or action to improve and maintain your trees. Care is given to provide the correct treatment at the proper time. If treatment is not warranted, or it is not the proper time, we will tell you.

Our goal is healthy trees by providing quality tree care and service to our customers. Thank you for the faith you have put in us!
